PROGRAM DESCRIPTION:

The purpose of the Leadership Academy of Madison County is to develop servant leaders by exposing our participants to the best practices for community leadership. Through a format of lecture, open dialogue, on-site visitation and class interaction, a participant will be exposed to capacities of leadership such as visioning, collaboration, community building activities and being a good Board member. We will meet twice during the year with the Youth Leadership Academy and service projects are coordinated through the Academy.

We expect class participants to attend all sessions except in the case of an emergency or illness.

SELECTION CRITERIA:

- Participants will be chosen by the Selection Committee based on application materials submitted by the candidates. Candidates are recruited from a representative cross-section of the community.
- Participants must live in or work in Madison County. 36 candidates will be selected to participate in LAMC 2016.
- Participants must have permission from their employer to be released from work to attend sessions.
- Participants are expected to attend Opening Retreat, all sessions and Closing Retreat.
- Participants must have motivation, interest, and a commitment to being a servant leader
- Applicants should demonstrate a willingness to commit themselves to active volunteer involvement in the community.
- Program candidates must demonstrate an ability to achieve personal goals and have time available to dedicate to community service as well as a personal commitment to Madison County.

APPLICANT COMMITMENT:

- Applicants are expected to serve and strengthen the community upon completion of the program.
- Although some employers may have an internal selection process, submitting an application does not guarantee a position in LAMC.
- The Selection Committee may be unable to place all eligible candidates, even if these applicants have demonstrated excellent credentials. These applicants are encouraged to apply for future programs.
- Assignments outside of class sessions may be required. If selected, participants will be expected to attend all session and complete program assignments.
- Participants who fail to attend more than 1 session are at risk for not receiving their certificate of completion.
